Mutt and Jeff by Oscar Perry and Simon Perry

Once there lived A Crocodile.
He walked on the streets,
Smoked Cigars,
Spoke Turkish,-
Crocodile,Crocodile
Crockodilovich!

In the footsteps of Woodward & Bernstein, Barnes and Noble, Trinidad and Tabago, Chas' n' Dave, Flannigan and Allan, Sunny and Cher, Smith and Wesson, Bread and Butter comes... The fire and brimstone collaboration 'Mutt and Jeff'. Two cannibals are eating a clown during the battle of Stalingrad, one of the cannibals turns to the other, "Does this taste funny too you?" 'Mutt and Jeff' or 'Who's the Carrot? Who's the Stick' is a good cop/ bad cop investigation into the coldest case of them all 'contemporary art'. Flash Forward 21 years. Its 1967... Paul McCartney's dead and Howard Holts missing. See two Dualling Banjos play along to a morse code backing-track. As the dust settles the Idiots go walking, pushing the wooden cart around the bombed out suburbs Flannigan leans into to Allen "My life is just a gamble... from the cradle to the grave. To live is just like playing out a hand...you cannot help what card the dealer gives you, so make them boast. To moe your lot is just a waste of time... And when you loose the game, don't loose your courage, just call another hand and try again."

Quasimodo, the bell ringer of Notre Dame, put an ad in the papers for an assistant bell ringer. One man applied for the job but he had no arms.

"How are you going to assist me?" asked Quasimodo. "That's easy!" replied the man and he ran at the bell and banged it with his head. BONG!!!

"That's amazing!" said Quasimodo. "Could you show me that again?"

"Sure!" said the man and he ran at the bell again but he missed the swinging bell and fell out of the bell tower. A crowd huddled around the hapless man lying dead in the street and a police office asked, "Does anyone know who he is?"

Quasimodo rushed down the stairs an approached the officer...
"I DON'T KNOW HIS NAME, BUT HIS FACE SURE RINGS A BELL!"
